

All Doctors are invited to this special Women in Medicine discussion:

Break Free from Unconscious Bias!

How can men help to level the playing field for Women in Medicine?

Studies have revealed that that women who work in male dominated professions are often subjected to backlash for displaying “male” characteristics such as assertiveness and decisiveness.

But this is not only something that “men do to women” – there is considerable evidence that women often sabotage themselves with guilt and uncertainty when they do not match stereotypes.

Join Professor Robert Wood, as he discusses his research into adaptive thinking, unconscious bias and diversity.

Learn new strategies to minimise the effects of unconscious bias, and explore the ways in which both men and women can create a more level playing field for Women in Medicine.

Moderated by Professor Helena Teede

Thursday, 12 November 2015

12pm-1pm

Lecture Theatre 1

MMC Clayton

Please register on Monash Learning Site:

>> Find Courses >> Professional Development >> Women in Medicine>> Unconscious Bias and the role of Men in levelling the playing field

Inspiring, encouraging and supporting you to reach your full potential

MonashHealth
Women in Medicine

