

JMS Education and Training Committee

2021 Highlights

Committee Membership

In 2021 we were lucky to have 10 members in the JMS Education and Training Committee representing interns, HMOs and IMG junior doctors. Our representatives at the JMO Victoria Forum was Dr Rachel Rebecca.

Intern representatives were: Rachel Rebecca, Hamish Evans, Namankit Gupta and Jonathan Wong. HMO representatives were: Nathan Vos, Gabriella Wong, Adam Cohen, Nicholle Sim and Naquiya Murtaza Mohsin.

We would also like to acknowledge the 2021 Innovation and Quality Medical Officers, who rotated into the committee as part of their IQMO term, in particular Dr Nathan Vos who remained as an ongoing member of the committee.

Referral Cheat Sheet

Building on the work of the 2020 committee, the JMO E&T Committee sought input and feedback from Registrars for all 33 specialties across Monash Health to finalise the Referral Cheat Sheet. Drafts were sent out to Heads of Unit for approval and the resource is now available here. This exciting initiative allows JMOs to quickly access a list of specific information to enable them to make a comprehensive and detailed referral.

The team behind this project are now conducting a Quality Improvement project to better understand the impact of the tool, and how it can be further improved.

A lanyard card with a QR linked to the cheat-sheet was provided to all 2022 Interns during Orientation.

The JMO E&T Committee would like to acknowledge and thank Dr Chris Chew (HMO4) for his ongoing support and leadership to drive this project forwards.

Wayfinding initiative

To improve campus navigation the wayfinding project was launched. Dr Nathan Vos was a significant contributor to this project, creating high resolution zoomable foot-prints of the key Monash Health sites. Members of the JMO committee contributed to labelling to make the maps user friendly. We also thank our colleagues in nursing education who assisted. The maps were launched during Intern orientation in 2022 and are available on the Monash Doctors website.

Monash Intern Mentoring Project

Commencing in 2021, this junior doctor lead initiative links new interns with PGY2s to support their transition from student to doctor.

2022 has already seen an increase of 30 Interns and 20 HMOs sign up to be involved from the 40+ Interns/HMOs in 2021 with a number of the 2021 Interns signing up to be mentors in 2022.

MDE looks forward to providing ongoing support to this great initiative.

Presentation at Intern Orientation

Five committee members kindly presented at the 2022 Intern Orientation Program, providing an opportunity for 2022 Interns to ask questions of current JMS. When asked if the session was helpful, the incoming interns rated it 4.4/5 and it was highlighted multiple times as a particularly useful session. We thank them for their time.

Monash Doctors Teach Students

Initiated by JMO Victoria, MDTs is a Monash Doctors and School of Clinical Sciences support program, which provided final year Medical students with the opportunity to learn from Monash JMS. This was supported by MDE and over the initial 8 week trial period, 71 JMS registered as tutors and 31 tutorials were held. There was such a large uptake from students a waitlist was required. From the feedback, 96% of students found the tutorials useful. We look forward to continuing to support this project in 2022.
